

Natural Woodland Burial Scheme

Natural woodland burial is becoming a realistic choice for those who are concerned that their funeral should reflect their interests in the environment. We are delighted to work in partnership with Clayton Wood burial ground, which was opened in 2008, nestling within the South Downs National Park. Our prepaid scheme enables us to reserve a plot for your future use and to provide a beautiful seagrass or woollen coffin. These coffins are made with concern for the environment and are visually appealing alternatives to traditional wooden styles.

The funeral service can either take place at the graveside or else in your local church then proceeding to Clayton Wood for the burial.

Grass and wild flowers are planted on graves after the ground has settled and when trees have grown to provide cover they will be under-planted with bluebells, snowdrops and wood anemone. For burials within the Glade area a tree of your choice will be planted as near as possible to the grave. Traditional headstones are not permitted but wooden plaques may be provided for an extra charge if required.
