

Congratulations for completing Big Deal, Small Talk!

Now that you have made these decisions, make sure you let someone who would be likely to make the arrangements on your behalf know, whether you talk them through this leaflet, inform them of where it is safely stored, or hand it to them in an envelope.

If your thoughts change over time, ensure that you update this, so that your wishes may be carried out.

Freeman Brothers has been established in West Sussex for over 160 years.

We take pride in offering a personal service in a profession that is becoming increasingly swamped by national and multinational organisations.

FREEMAN BROTHERS FUNERAL DIRECTORS

Provided by Freeman Brothers Funeral Directors to help people think about their funeral options

Have you thought about what you want for your funeral?

More importantly, have you discussed your wishes with someone who is likely to be arranging it? Many people find this conversation difficult, which is why we've produced this leaflet.

Here, we have outlined the key decisions which need to be made, and added space for you to customise the service. It may be that you want something simple and private, or that you want to fine-tune the full details – either way, you can do so here.

Use our step-by-step guide to complete your wishes, then either talk them through with a friend, or let someone know where to find this document when it's needed.

If you need any help filling this out, please ask us.
